The Vermont deer hunting season of 1919 started in most inauspiciously with the slaughter of two men and injury to another. There are apprehensions for what the succeeding five days of the open season may bring forth.

It is not going to be an easy task for the United States government to pick out the countries from which the aliens marked for deportation came. For instance, there is some doubt just where Emma Goldman really hailed from when she landed in the United States.

Information that President Wilson is making "rapid" recovery from his illness is offset to a marked extent by further information that it will be another month before he will be able to participate in the ordinary affairs of life. He is scarcely in the convalescent classification yet.

By virtually informing Pres. Wilson that he can take the reservations or carry the issue to the next presidential election, Senator Lodge has not helped his cause nor stiffened the attitude of those who have been supporting him. That sort of a deft may prove to be a boomerang before the Senate gets through with the matter this term.

Marshal Foch's prediction that Germany will renew the war just as soon as she can and will be licked by the allies instantly does not seem likely to come to pass, if the present temper of the German people is rightly portrayed by those who have been investigating conditions in Germany. To judge by those portrayals, the German people have got about all the war they want for a long time.

The Rutland Herald challenges some "moribund" community in Vermont to take the annual exhibition of the Vermont Horticultural society away from Rutland. There are at least six other communities in Vermont which ought to have the convention now and then, just for the good of apple growing, and they will probably decline to accept the designation of the boasting contemporary by going after the convention in due season. P. S.—This is not a threat but a prediction.

That $88,750,000 balance of the $100,000,000 relief fund which the United States appropriated to care for suffering children in various foreign countries might be held as a reserve fund in case of similar necessity in the United States after a winter of hardship. That part of the original amount which was spent in foreign countries is said to have contributed greatly to the improvement of conditions in those countries, about 3,000,000 babies having been brought back to health through the supplies of food presented them by the commission having the distribution in charge. There may not be 3,000,000 children in the United States who will need support just as badly as those children of foreign countries, but there is certain to be a considerable number whose condition will be deplorable.

Instructions to the public on how to mail Christmas packages to soldiers in the A. E. F. call to attention that the United States still has military forces in Europe, though a year and a month have passed since the signing of the armistice. Two years ago there was a great flurry in hundreds of thousands of homes in the United States as the people made their preparations for sending a "real treat" over to the boys who were in training for the great military maneuvers which were to take place the following summer. And a year ago, too, the packages were being shipped across the ocean by those same people, anxious to give the boys some things to remind them of home and of loved ones. There are only a comparatively few soldiers still remaining in Europe but it is safe to say that they will not be forgotten this Christmas.

The decision of Gov. Clement to commute the death sentence of Bert Kelsie to imprisonment for life will receive the approbation of most of the people of the state, we believe, inasmuch as the general idea that the condemned man was far below normal in mentality was borne out by the report of the alienists who examined the man at the state prison recently. Those alienists reported that Kelsie is, and always has been, mentally irresponsible. That sweeping statement covers, of course, the period when Kelsie struck down and murdered James Allen at Orleans some what over a year ago. Kelsie was not mentally responsible at that time and probably should have been under restraint rather than allowed to go at large, a menace to society. Because of that lack of restraint he was given opportunity for putting into action one of the distorted fashionings of a disordered brain. Because of its failure to care for the man as it should, society should not now put him out of the way.

FOOTBALL MORE SANE.

The total number of deaths from injuries sustained in college football games during the season which has now come to a close is so small as to cause a subsidence of the usual protest against the brutality and hazardous nature of the game as played by the American colleges and imitated to a certain degree by the secondary schools all over the land. Practically all the colleges and a large percentage of the larger secondary schools (meaning academies and high schools) had teams during the season and the interest in the game, which had waned during the war period, was at a fever heat as not before in years. With so many colleges and schools indulging in the game, there must have been many thousands of young men and boys engaged in practicing, going through the hard training and subjecting themselves to the bumps of the game; yet out of that large total of participants only five are recorded as having received fatal injuries. The number of deaths was far below the average for the past decade and still lower than during the period of football known as the bone-breaking era when the possession of aivodupis and muscle was the sole requisite for a winning season. In recent years a remarkable advance has been made in equalizing the game, so to speak, by giving place to the element of brain power along with muscle and endurance while at the same time eliminating much of the mere "beef" feature of the contests. Skill of brain and dexterity of foot and arm now play an important part in the game, the contests being opened up and the mass formations reduced to a place of less importance. This accounts for the comparatively small number of deaths during the 1919 season and it should serve to wipe away most of the objection of parents to their boys' participating in the game, especially when the game is played after a period of intelligent physical preparation as modern teachers of the game require. Football is a more sane game as played to-day.

VILLA WIPED OUT
673 FEDERAL

Gen. Santo Sanchez, Commander of 80th Regiment, Mexican Forces, Is Reported as Missing.

El Paso, Tex., Dec. 2.—General Santo Sanchez, commander of the 80th regiment of Mexican federal troops, today was still reported missing. It was believed he had been killed with 673 men of his command of 675, with whom he had boasted he would "get" Francisco Villa, when that bandit chieftain with 1,000 followers, in revenge for the execution of General Felipe Angeles, swooped down on the federalists at Rancho Espino and massacred them.

Only two officers escaped Villa's vengeance, according to the report brought here by Dr. L. M. Gomez of El Paso and Los Angeles, former American army aviator. He said he overheard the two officers, Colonel Marroqui, relate the story of the annihilation of the federal command, to a mutual friend in Santa Rosalia. Clubbed rifles and knives accounted for most of the command, according to the story. One hundred and fifty federalists fell at the first surprise volley and many others were shot down as they fled. The Villistas fought with the fury of madmen, the officers said. The attack began at 6 o'clock in the morning, about 24 hours after Angeles was executed. Villa's threats of revenge for the death of his former aide were known to federal authorities below the border, but the surprise of the 80th regiment was said to have been complete.

AFTER THREE YEARS,
TRIED FOR MURDER

Charles Rollins Is Accused of Slaying Edward W. Foley, a Boston Merchant.

Boston, Dec. 2.—Charles Rollins, who has been in jail nearly three years, charged with the murder of Edward W. Foley, a chain grocery store manager here, was placed on trial to-day. His brother, George, who was found guilty of first degree murder about a year ago, has not yet been sentenced. The brothers were arrested after a series of robberies from grocery stores here in January, 1917.

The delay in bringing Charles Rollins to trial was due to the death of one of the lawyers for the defense.

INVITES HARVARD.

Gov. Stephens Sends Message to Football Team to Visit California.

Cambridge, Mass., Dec. 2.—Governor Stephens of California added his official word to the invitations to the Harvard university football team to play at Pasadena New Year's day, in a telegram received by the Harvard Athletic association to-day.

The Harvard Crimson, the undergraduate daily newspaper, expressed editorially the hope that the invitation would be accepted. Action on the proposal will be taken at meetings of the athletic committee and the faculty late to-day and to-night. The players almost generally have declared themselves eager to make the trip.

UNION POLICEMEN DISMISSED.

Officers in Jersey City Union Let Go for "Infraction of Rules."

Jersey City, Dec. 2.—Eleven policemen, including the president of the Patrolmen's union, and three firemen, including the president and treasurer of the Unionized Uniformed Firemen's association, were dismissed from the city's service yesterday. Although all the men were said to have been engaged in union activities in their respective departments, it was said that the dismissals were for infraction of rules by leaving their posts of duty.

FARM BUREAU

Notes for Week Ending Nov. 29

On Monday evening, Nov. 24, the executive committee of the farm bureau met at the farm bureau office. Two of the advisory council members were present as was also J. E. Carrigan of the extension service. As this was the first meeting of the entire committee since the annual meeting the election of officers took place. The following are the officers elected: Treasurer, John Davis; vice-president, Ralph Wilcox; secretary-treasurer, George Tuthery. A discussion then took place as to the future program of the farm bureau. Mr. Carrigan exhibited a chart of the program as being carried out in one community in the state. The chart showed the accomplishments as gained last year and the goal set for this year. There was much interest aroused over the results of this plan and it was voted to adopt this form of community work in Orange county.

On Tuesday evening the agents attended the annual chicken-pie supper of the Chelsea West Hill Farmers' club. A bountiful supper was served and a good time was enjoyed by about 60 people, including visitors from the Brookfield and Chelsea branch neighborhoods, were present.

This week the Peth Farmers' club will be visited on Monday evening and work in the interests of the Randolph Cow Testing association will be done on Tuesday. From Wednesday until Saturday, the agents will be in Burlington attending the annual conference of the extension service.
